COVERAGE HIGHLIGHTS: NATIONAL MEDIA

"It's a Tournament that I love. I always tell them I don't leave the island until they let me sign a contract to come back in four years. It's my favorite tournament. It's my favorite place to go. I told everybody, if they fire me tomorrow, I can't get back here in 24 hours, but I will be back in 48. I do love the place."

– Roy Williams, North Carolina Head Basketball Coach

"We have always loved playing in the Maui Invitational. It's as well-run as any tournament and, to me, it is a huge reward for our players and fans to go there. You always get really well-prepared for the upcoming season by playing the high level of competition that's always there."

– Mike Krzyzewski, Duke Head Basketball Coach

"College basketball tournaments come and go like pop-ups shops, but the Maui Invitational not only forges on; it thrives."

– Dana O'Neil, The Athletic

"It's almost like an NCAA Regional Final, but it's played in one of the most beautiful places on Earth."

– Fran Franschilla, ESPN

WATCH: Zion Williamson throws down windmill dunk as Duke cruises past San Diego State at Maui Invitational

Williamson had no issue going full dunk contest in Hawaii vs. San Diego State

By Kyle Boone @kyle_boone Nov 20, 2018 - 1 min read

Off the Bench: Can anyone beat Duke?

Duke's super freshman Zion Williamson was a well-known viral sensation before he got to Duke for his highlight reel dunks and freakish feats of athleticism, and those traits haven't eluded him as a college freshman. Williamson is dunking early and often in his Blue Devils career, and has shown he's not afraid to spice it up.
