Chaminade University OF HONOLULU

Aloha, and welcome to the 2018 Maui Jim Maui Invitational!

Each year as November nears, Chaminade University of Honolulu joins thousands of fans in the anticipation of college basketball's arrival to the islands. When Thanksgiving week comes and talent spills into the Lahaina Civic Center, fans fill the stands, highlight reels splash the airwaves, it can only mean one thing — the competition for the Wayne Duke Trophy has begun.

On behalf of Chaminade University of Honolulu, I am honored to welcome you to the 35th Annual Maui Jim Maui Invitational. This tournament is unlike any other — it takes place in the beautiful tropical paradise we call home, where aloha is a way of life and everyone is treated like 'ohana, or family. This week, we are excited to welcome you into our 'ohana.

Chaminade University of Honolulu is home to more than 140 student athletes from across the world who compete in 10 NCAA Division II sports. Our athletes are known for their accomplishments both on and off the court. This past June, we had 93 students from all 10 of our teams secure a spot on the Academic All-Pacific West Conference Team for their academic achievements — a record-breaking number for the second consecutive year. All 10 of our men's and women's sports had at least 57 percent of their rosters earn the honor.

This year brought new opportunities for the Chaminade men's basketball team. For the first time in school history, Chaminade basketball had the unique opportunity to play games on the mainland against Tournament teams San Diego State and Arizona, giving the team increased exposure in some of college basketball's largest arenas. The team faced off against San Diego State University and the University of Arizona in early November. Chaminade Hui 'Āhinahina Booster Club and school partners on the mainland were able to take advantage of the opportunity to foster relationships and grow our connections. Chaminade's participation in the mainland games will add new traditions to the Tournament for years to come and expand on the event's illustrious history, which we are so proud to support.

I want to thank our loyal donors from the Chaminade Hui 'Āhinahina Booster Club and Annual Intercollegiate Athletics Gala who support our student athletes and this Tournament. I would also like to thank Maui Mayor Alan Arakawa and the Maui County Council for welcoming us back to their gorgeous island. Mahalo to the Maui Visitors Bureau, Hawaii Tourism Authority and our host hotels — the Hyatt Regency Maui Resort & Spa, Sheraton Maui Resort & Spa and the Westin Maui Resort & Spa. And, congratulations are in order for Maui Jim Sunglasses for another successful Tournament.

Last but certainly not least, mahalo to you, our generous fans, who have traveled from near and far to support this year's incredible class of student athletes. I hope you enjoy your time here and have a safe and joyous holiday season.

Dr. Lynn Babington
President, Chaminade University of Honolulu

Aloha!

On behalf of the entire Maui Jim 'ohana, welcome to the Maui Jim Maui Invitational! We are so excited to sponsor the premier early-season college basketball tournament in Maui. Our company was founded in Lahaina, just minutes from the Lahaina Civic Center, and we're thrilled to bring the aloha spirit to basketball fans across the nation and the world. Inspired by the beauty and culture of the island, Maui Jim makes sunglasses that enable beauty, color and clarity to be seen at their finest.

The Maui Jim Maui Invitational has been a magnet for the nation's top college basketball programs and fans for the past 34 years. Not only are some of the most exciting early-season basketball games on display, but the limitless Maui sun and beautiful water inspire thousands of basketball fans to visit the island each year. At Maui Jim, we take our cues from the sun. It's as much a part of our lives as the air we breathe. We work in it, play under it and relax with it surrounding us. We are always finding new ways to reveal more of the vibrant colors of the world while protecting your eyes from the effects of harsh glare and harmful rays. In fact, no other sunglass offers the same level of visual acuity, protection and color enhancement as our patented PolarizedPlus2 lenses.

The 2018 Maui Jim Maui Invitational field comprises one of the most accomplished fields in Tournament history. It will feature four national coach of the year winners, led by Duke's 12-time honoree Mike Krzyzewski. He is one of six Maui-bound head coaches, with at least five years' experience, who appear among the NCAA's top 20 active leaders in winning percentage, joining Gonzaga's Mark Few, Arizona's Sean Miller, Illinois' Brad Underwood, Auburn's Bruce Pearl and Iowa State's Steve Prohm.

Combined, the teams own 196 NCAA Tournament berths, including 27 Final Four appearances, and 197 conference regular season and tournament championships. Accompanied by Tournament newcomers Auburn and Xavier, the six returning programs have a combined 55-19 record in Maui, with the Blue Devils, Wildcats, Bulldogs and Illini boasting Maui Jim Maui Invitational championships. Arizona (2014), Duke (2011) and Illinois (2012) each return to Maui having claimed the Tournament title in their most recent appearance.

We'd like to wish every team the best of luck in the Tournament. Enjoy the games and have a wonderful holiday season!

Mahalo,

Jay Black
Vice President, Global Marketing
Maui Jim Sunglasses

Aloha kakou,

On behalf of the people of the County of Maui, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 2018 Maui Jim Maui Invitational college basketball tournament. This year's lineup of talented players is sure to deliver the energy and excitement that are hallmarks of first-rate competition.

The 35th annual preseason tournament will feature matchups of Auburn, Xavier, Duke, San Diego State, along with Arizona, Iowa State, Gonzaga and Illinois. Combined, the teams own 196 NCAA Tournament berths, including 27 Final Four appearances, and 197 conference regular season and tournament championships. They are coached by some of the best, with four coaches earning national coach of the year honors.

This is truly a tournament of champions, where some of the most riveting preseason college basketball games are played and standout players emerge before making a debut on the national scene. It also sets the stage for some of the finest coaching in the U.S., as national contenders vie for a global audience.

I extend a heartfelt mahalo to the event sponsors, especially to Maui Jim for support as the tournament title sponsor, and KemperLesnik for operating one of the leading basketball tournaments in the nation. From all of us in the County of Maui, congratulations to the players, coaches, supporters and spectators of the 2018 Maui Jim Maui Invitational.

Sincerely,

Special Message from Governor David Y. Ige and
Lieutenant Governor Douglas S. Chin
In Recognition of the
Maui Jim Maui Invitational

November 19-21, 2018

On behalf of the people of Hawai'i, we extend a special aloha and welcome to everyone gathered for the 2018 Maui Jim Maui Invitational at the Lahaina Civic Center on Maui. The tournament has the distinction of being one of the oldest early-season men's college basketball tournaments in the nation and is returning for its 35th year.

Participating schools are well represented among the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) elite and have won the NCAA championship 68 of the last 80 years. Since its inception, a total of 118 schools representing 26 conferences and 40 states have competed in the event and 21 different champions have been crowned. Almost 300 tournament participants have been selected in the National Basketball Association draft, including 153 selected in the first round.

To our visitors, when you are not cheering on your favorite team, we encourage you to explore the many sites and experiences Maui has to offer. Whether you visit historic Lāhainā Town, drive the scenic road to Hāna, experience a beautiful sunrise from Haleakalā, relax on one of our world-famous beaches, or partake in the wide array of shopping and farm-to-table cuisine available on our Valley Isle, we wish you a memorable and enjoyable time here in Hawai'i.

Mahalo nui loa to Chaminade University for hosting this exciting sporting tradition. To all of the coaches, players, and spectators, we extend our best wishes for a successful and action-packed tournament.

With warmest regards,

David Y. Ige

Jim O'Connell: A Tribute

To Jim O'Connell, whose service and tireless commitment to the game of basketball can only be matched by the legacy he has left behind. We honor and thank him for his profound impact on the sport we love, and for his steadfast commitment to the Maui Jim Maui Invitational over the past 30 years.

From your Tournament Ohana, Mahalo! We miss you dearly, Oc.

- “For more than 30 years at The Associated Press, Jim O’Connell represented the very best in sports journalism. His tireless and unparalleled coverage of college basketball elevated our entire sport.”
— Mike Krzyzewski, Head Coach of Duke
- “The only thing he knew more about than basketball was how to treat people.”
— Steven Marcus, Newsday
- “He was the source on college basketball. He knew coaches, players, games, dates of games and final scores — all manner of factoids — off the top of his head. And when you looked it up, he was always right.”
— Terry Taylor, Former AP Sports Editor
- “Oc is the most knowledgeable, ethical, humble college basketball expert ever. He is dependable as a friend and as a writer.”
— Jay Wright, Head Coach of Villanova
- “He was a unique individual. Always had a good word for everybody. Always.”
— Jim Boheim, Head Coach of Syracuse

The Hoops Clinics presented by HMSA are free programs for the Maui, Oahu, and Island of Hawai'i residents. The clinics, a joint effort between Maui Jim Maui Invitational tournament partners, Chaminade University, and HMSA, help grow the game of basketball throughout the islands. Attendees learned the fundamentals of the sport from student-athletes, coaches and administrators.

BOYS AND GIRLS CLUBS YOUTH CLINICS

Local youth learned basketball fundamentals from Chaminade University men's and women's basketball student-athletes during this year's youth clinics. 3rd-8th graders had direct interaction with Chaminade players as they improved their dribbling, passing and shooting skills. Participants received souvenir T-shirts and basketballs. The clinics were held at the Honolulu Boys & Girls Club Spalding Clubhouse and Hale Pono Clubhouse in Ewa Beach, as well as Kealahou High School and the Lahaina Civic Center Dream Courts.

ANNUAL FREE-THROW CONTEST

In coordination with the County of Maui and local Maui schools, the Maui Jim Maui Invitational teams one student with one of the Tournament's eight participating head coaches in an annual free-throw contest. The teams work together to make as many free throws as possible, with all proceeds going to local charities. This unique event gives local youth the opportunity to interact with many of college basketball's finest coaches, while supporting charitable causes around the islands.

Wilbur Wildcat and members of the cheer team pose for Arizona's surfboard presentation on Feb. 8 in front of more than 14,000 fans.

Members of the Gonzaga men's basketball team and Head Coach Mark Few throw up their best shakas during the annual Kraziness in the Kennel on Oct. 6.

Aubie the Tiger showed off the team's custom surfboard during Auburn's football game vs. Arkansas. The Tigers also showcased the surfboard during the Feb. 7 basketball game against Texas A&M.

The Iowa State men's basketball team and Cy the Cardinal received their surfboard during the Cyclones' Sept. 15 football game in front of a crowd of more than 58,000 fans.

The Cameron Crazees went wild for their surfboard presentation at the Blue Devils' contest against Louisville on Feb. 22. The presentation was paired with the Duke Pep Band's rendition of "Wipeout" and surfing tradition.

SURFBOARDS

ACROSS AMERICA

RIDING THE WAVE

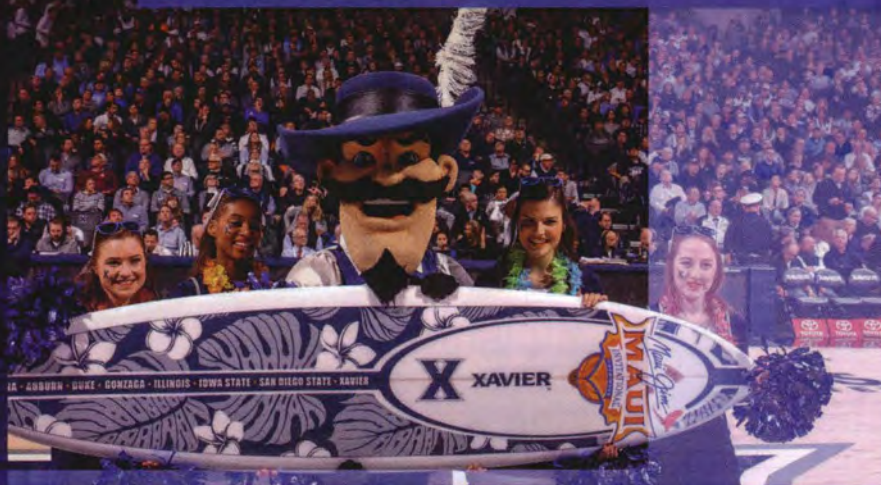

The tradition of presenting handcrafted Maui Jim Maui Invitational customized surfboards originally began in 2001, when the 8-foot boards were presented to the teams while on the island in November. To showcase these pieces of art to a wider audience, the boards “surf” onto campuses across America, where they were presented to participating teams at on-campus events during the fall. Not only has the tradition continued with the fall deliveries, but the boards also made a splash during the season at home basketball games for the championship round teams.

Members of the Illinois men's basketball team posed with their surfboard during the Sept. 22 football game. The team was introduced to nearly 120,000 fans on hand for the contest against Penn State.

San Diego State athletic director John David Wicker and members of the cheer squad received the team's custom surfboard during halftime of the basketball team's Feb. 3 contest.

The Xavier Musketeer received his team's surfboard on Feb. 17 and displayed it for the capacity crowd of nearly 11,000 fans to see.

TOURNAMENT TESTED

THREE DAYS IN MAUI CAN SET THE STAGE FOR A MEMORABLE SEASON

2016 Maui Jim Maui Invitational champions, North Carolina

2017 NCAA National Champions, North Carolina

2010 Maui Jim Maui Invitational champions, UConn

2011 NCAA National Champions, UConn

Talk to any North Carolina fan. They will tell you there are striking similarities between each of their last three national championships.

In each of their last three runs to the national championship (2004-05, 2008-09 and 2016-17), North Carolina started its season by winning the Wayne Duke championship trophy at the Lahaina Civic Center.

Coincidence? Maybe in the eyes of some. But recent history suggests that success in Maui often translates to positive results throughout the season.

Still in the glow of helping the Tar Heels to their sixth national title in program history, North Carolina head coach Roy Williams can't help but tie it all together.

"It's no coincidence we won the Maui Jim Maui Invitational in each of our three national-championship seasons," he said in the weeks following his team's championship win. "We've had experienced talent on those teams and the Maui tournament always has a strong field we can test ourselves against early in the season.

"Winning there leads to confidence, but playing in Maui and the players getting to spend time together in such a beautiful, fun place also has undoubtedly helped our team. Gaining that winning experience against other really good teams is something we can draw upon later in the year."

Years earlier, when UConn opened the 2010-11 season, they were projected to finish 10th in the Big East. Three days in Maui changed all that. Behind Tournament MVP Kemba Walker, UConn took home the Tournament title. Then after a 9-9 record in conference play, the Huskies returned to their Maui form in postseason play, ending the year on an 11-game winning streak that resulted in a Big East Tournament and NCAA Championship.

"When we started the Big East Tournament, some fans of ours were yelling to us from behind the bench, "Maui in Manhattan," said UConn coach Jim Calhoun after winning the conference tournament. "For the championship game, they even had lei's around their neck. The start of our season was so fantastic with what we accomplished in Maui and we bookended it with last week's accomplishment in New York. They are two memories that will last a lifetime for me and for our players."

These programs, along with Michigan in 1988-89, make up the five teams that claimed championships in Maui to start the year and in the NCAA Tournament to conclude the college basketball season.

And even though only one team can take home the title in Maui, the challenges each will face over three days of Basketball in Paradise will go a long way in getting them ready for the season ahead.

In total, 19 teams that have played in Maui to start the year have reached the Final Four. Among those are the 1987-88 Kansas team led by All-American Danny Manning, and the 1997-98 Kentucky Wildcats coached by Tubby Smith, who went on to win an NCAA Championship.

Whether leaving the island as champions, or with a little extra motivation as battle-tested runners-up, what happens in this 2,400-seat gym could be the foundation for a season that ends in front of 66,000 at U.S. Bank Stadium April 8.

SEASON OUTLOOK

The Wildcats head into the 2018-19 season with a talented group of returners and mix of newcomers to replace five starters from a year ago, including the first overall pick in the NBA Draft in Deandre Ayton. Arizona will look to a core of returners in Dylan Smith, Brandon Randolph, Ira Lee, Emmanuel Akot and Alex Barcello to build on their experience heading into the year. Junior Chase Jeter, who sat out last season after transferring from Duke, will anchor the front line and bring more experience to the UA roster. Arizona added a pair of graduate transfers in guard Justin Coleman and forward Ryan Luther who will look to make an instant impact. A group of freshman of Devonaire Doutrive, Brandon Williams and Omar Thielemans will fortify the roster as newcomers alongside Coleman and Luther.

SEASON OUTLOOK

Fresh off their first Southeastern Conference title in nearly 20 years and first appearance in the NCAA Tournament since 2003, the Auburn Tigers are primed and ready to build off their recent success in 2018-19 with head coach Bruce Pearl leading the charge. Auburn returns its All-SEC backcourt in Bryce Brown and Jared Harper. Brown led the league with 3.2 3-pointers per game last season to go along with 15.9 points per contest, while Harper touted 5.4 assists per tilt with 13.2 points per game. The Tigers also welcome back one of the deepest frontcourts in the nation, highlighted by Chuma Okeke and Austin Wiley. Auburn touts a loaded non-conference schedule with games against Dayton, Murray State, NC State and Washington to go along with the Maui Invitational where it joins the deepest field in tournament history of Arizona, Duke, Gonzaga, Illinois, Iowa State, San Diego State and Xavier.

DUKE BLUE DEVILS

SEASON OUTLOOK

The more things in Durham change, the more they stay the same. Hall of Fame head coach Mike Krzyzewski, back for his 39th season at Duke, welcomes another vaunted freshman class, looking to replace the five leading scorers from a team that reached the Elite Eight a season ago. The young Blue Devils will look to extend the program's unblemished Maui Invitational record as they pursue Duke's sixth title on the island. Leading the way are juniors Javin DeLaurier and Marques Bolden, Duke's top returning rebounder and scorer, respectively. They're tasked with helping mold the nation's preeminent incoming class, which includes the No. 1 (R.J. Barrett), No. 2 (Zion Williamson), No. 3 (Cam Reddish) and No. 10 (Tre Jones) players, along with Joey Baker. Expectations are high at Duke. But with five national championships and 12 Final Fours, Coach K wouldn't have it any other way.

SEEING THE FUTURE

POTENTIAL STARS, CHAMPIONS ON DISPLAY IN PARADISE

With 34 years of history, the Maui Jim Maui Invitational has produced countless memorable moments: Adam Morrison's tournament-record 43 points in Gonzaga's triple-overtime victory over Michigan State in 2005, Kemba Walker's MVP performance in 2010 and Ball State's improbable run to the tournament final in 2001.

With an eight-team field comprised of player-of-the-year candidates, future NBA draft picks and national championship contenders, Fran Fraschilla says this year's edition of Basketball in Paradise is poised to deliver even more of these moments during the three days that tipoff the 2018-19 college basketball season.

"There's always going to be one or two or three performances that we look back on, both individual and team performances," said the long-time ESPN broadcaster. "Whether it's Duke's R.J. Barrett, Xavier's Naji Marshall, Gonzaga's Rui Hachimura, or one of the many the other great players who are going to be in this tournament, there are going to be some incredible individual performances we'll remember long after these young men leave the island."

When Arizona, Auburn, Duke, Gonzaga, Illinois, Iowa State, San Diego State and Xavier converge on the Lahaina Civic Center during Thanksgiving Week, fans could be seeing eight teams that will end the season at the NCAA Tournament. "It's almost like an NCAA Regional but it's played in one of the most beautiful places on Earth," quipped Fraschilla.

To win this bracket, the game's top coaches will have to guide their respective teams through a challenging field. And after three days, they'll have a clear vision for how they'll need to navigate the season ahead.

"The main thing is that you come away finding out more about your team's strengths and weaknesses after three days of great competition than you would anywhere else," said Fraschilla, who was twice part of a coaching staff that competed in Maui. "There's a lot of highlights to this trip, but it's also a business trip in that all of these teams have an agenda for the rest of their season that includes going as far as possible in the NCAA Tournament."

Auburn, Duke and Gonzaga are consensus top-10 teams and have all the ingredients for a Final Four run, said Fraschilla. The Blue Devils, guided by Mike Krzyzewski, are a perfect 16-0 in Maui Jim Maui Invitational contests and have won five tournament titles. Duke welcomes the nation's top recruiting class, buoyed by incoming sensations R.J. Barrett, Cameron Reddish, Zion Williamson and Tre Jones. The Bulldogs, under the direction of Mark Few, are two years removed from a berth in the national championship game and also claimed the 2009 Maui title. Rui Hachimura, Killian Tillie, Zach Norvell and a host of returning veterans will establish the Bulldogs as championship hopefuls from the start of the season. Bruce Pearl will lead the Tigers to their first Maui appearance, but Pearl was also an assistant coach with the Iowa coaching staff that won the tournament title in 1987. Auburn welcomes back a host of talented stars, including Bryce Brown and Jared Harper, as well as Austin Wiley, who missed all of last season.

Three other teams in this year's field joined Auburn, Duke and Gonzaga in the NCAA tournament last year, as Arizona, San Diego State and Xavier each won conference regular season or tournament championships last year. The Aztecs return three starters from last year's squad and are positioned for another run to the NCAA tournament, according to Fraschilla. But some roster and coaching changes for the Wildcats and Musketeers will create some uncertainty to begin the season. Sean Miller, entering his 10th season with the Wildcats and boasting seven previous NCAA appearances with the program, replaces his entire starting lineup from a year ago with a talented incoming class of recruits. Meanwhile, Xavier will be under the direction of new head coach Travis Steele, a long-time assistant to Chris Mack, who left after the season to accept the Louisville head coaching role. After a decade with the program, Steele shows every indication of maintaining a high level of success for a program that has made the NCAA tournament in 16 of the past 18 years.

Not to be overlooked, Iowa State and Illinois will enter the 2018-19 season with their sights set on returning to the postseason. Cyclone head coach Steve Prohm and Illini head coach Brad Underwood have established themselves as some of the game's best young coaches, each having won at least 70 percent of their games over their careers. Iowa State returns a talented crop of freshmen, including Lindell Wigginton, an All-Big 12 Honorable Mention performer last season. The Illini, meanwhile, are led by Trent Frazier, who ranked among the team leaders in points, minutes, assists and steals as a freshman last year. Illinois also welcomes a heralded recruiting class led by high school All-American Ayo Dosunmu. Underwood has shown recent success in Maui, having led Oklahoma State to a third-place finish in 2016.

With the talent that peppers each Maui-bound program, Fraschilla expects fans will see a number of future NBA All-Stars this year. Additionally, the Maui Jim Maui Invitational championship game will undoubtedly serve as an indicator for this season's cream of the crop.

"It certainly looks like Duke and Gonzaga on paper," Fraschilla replied when asked for his championship game prediction. "It would create an incredible atmosphere once again as we have seen every year at the Lahaina Civic Center. It would pit two teams that could very easily meet again next March or early April in Minneapolis at the Final Four.

"When both teams leave the island, as with the other six, they will have a much better feel about where their team's strengths or weaknesses lie than before they arrive in one of the most idyllic places in our country."

Although the primary focus of the trip is winning three games in three days, Fraschilla says the experience of playing in one of the most scenic places in the world presents a wonderful opportunity for each of these programs.

"Well first of all, the opportunity to play in the Maui Jim Maui Invitational is something that no matter where any of the players go the rest of their lives, it's a highlight of their college careers," he said. "To be able to say that they've played in Maui, in the Lahaina Civic Center, on ESPN, is something that I've seen in the past. As someone who has been part of two teams that played in Maui and as a broadcaster, it's a highlight of their careers. It's a place to play basketball in a tournament that is the premier basketball tournament in the country with incredible tradition. The experience of being at the Maui Jim Maui Invitational is a once in a lifetime experience."

SEASON OUTLOOK

Expectations are high in Spokane for the 2018-19 Gonzaga men's basketball team. The Zags lost two starters from last season's 32-5 squad, but return several core pieces to a team looking for the program's fourth 30-win season in the past five seasons. GU has won 132 games over the past four seasons, the third-most in Division I history, and is the only program in the nation that has appeared in the last four Sweet 16s. The Bulldogs boast one of the country's best frontcourts with versatile and high-flying forwards Rui Hachimura, Killian Tillie and Brandon Clarke. The backcourt includes senior point guard Josh Perkins, who enters his final season with the Zags with 101 career victories. Zach Norvell Jr. became the team's Mr. Clutch as a freshman in 2017-18, and will be leaned on much of the same this season. With a deep bench and exciting newcomers, success should continue in Spokane.

ILLINOIS FIGHTING ILLINI

SEASON OUTLOOK

Second-year head coach Brad Underwood welcomes talented newcomers to the Illini roster, joining a core of productive returnees. Dynamic guard Trent Frazier is the Illini's top returning scorer, while Kipper Nichols netted double figures and is the top returning rebounder. Aaron Jordan, the lone four-year player on roster, ranked third in the Big Ten in 3-point shooting last year, and Da'Monte Williams is one of the Illini's best defenders. Illinois' top-20 recruiting class features two transfers and six freshmen. Junior college signee Andres Feliz was a first-team All-American last year, while 7-foot Kent State grad transfer Adonis De La Rosa will provide scoring and rebounding in the paint. Ayo Dosunmu is a five-star guard from Chicago and Tevian Jones is a top-100 recruit from California. Alan Griffin led Archbishop Stepinac to its first New York state championship. The Illini frontcourt also adds promising freshmen Samba Kane and Giorgi Bezhanishvili.

IOWA STATE CYCLONES

SEASON OUTLOOK

Iowa State, led by fourth-year head coach Steve Prohm, looks to bounce back and make a return to the NCAA Tournament in 2018-19 following a rebuilding season in Ames. ISU will be led by sophomore Lindell Wigginton, the Big 12's leading returning scorer after averaging 16.7 points as a freshman. Wigginton's rookie season put him in elite company, joining Kevin Durant as the only freshmen in Big 12 history to average 16.0 points while making 65 3-pointers at a 40-percent clip. ISU also returns forward Cameron Lard, who joined Wigginton on the Big 12 All-Newcomer Team while averaging 12.6 points and 8.1 rebounds as a redshirt freshmen. Nick Weiler-Babb is back for his senior season after an impressive junior campaign that was cut short by injury. Junior post player Solomon Young and transfers Michael Jacobson and Marial Shayok round out a more experienced Cyclone roster this season.

SEASON OUTLOOK

San Diego State is in the second year of the Brian Dutcher era and expectations are high after the Aztecs won the Mountain West in 2018 and reached the NCAA tournament for the seventh time in the last nine seasons. Dutcher welcomes back three starters in senior guard Devin Watson and sophomore forwards Jalen McDaniels and Matt Mitchell. Watson is the team's top returning scorer and McDaniels led SDSU in rebounding a year ago. Teaming up with Watson in the backcourt is classmate Jeremy Hemsley, who has earned all-Mountain West honors multiple times during his stay on The Mesa. Along with its two other returning letter-winners in junior forward Nolan Narain and sophomore guard Jordan Schakel, San Diego State will welcome into the fold redshirt freshman guard Adam Seiko and true freshman forwards Aguek Arop, Ed Chang, Joel Mensah and Nathan Mensah.

Second Season
22-11 at San Diego St. / 22-11 Overall

"We are excited to return to the premier college basketball tournament in the country, the Maui Jim Maui Invitational. This year's field is one of the best in recent memory and will test us as we prepare for the rigors of the Mountain West. We fell two points short in our quest to win the tournament back in 2014 and are looking forward to competing this season against some of the best teams in the nation."

QUENTIN GOODIN
Junior Guard

XAVIER MUSKETEERS

SEASON OUTLOOK

Xavier lost its top 3 scorers and rebounders from last year's team that finished 29-6 overall and won the Big East Conference Regular Season Championship with a 15-3 record. But the Musketeers have some quality experience returning for first-year head coach Travis Steele, who was on the XU staff for 10 years before taking over. Junior guard Quentin Goodin is XU's top returning scorer with 8.7 ppg, and ranked third in assists in the Big East with 4.9 apg. Fellow junior Tyrique Jones is XU's top returning rebounder, and sophomore forward Naji Marshall was a unanimous selection to the 2018 Big East Conference All-Freshman Team. Returning sophomore guard Paul Scruggs averaged 16.8 minutes a game as a freshman. Steele has a talented five-member newcomer class, including three graduate transfers who are expected to play major roles this season. Xavier, a No. 1 seed in last year's NCAA Tournament, played in its fifth straight NCAA Tournament and its 12th in the last 13 years.

Head coach

TRAVIS STEELE

First Season

"We are honored to be a part of such a talented tournament field. It's exciting for our players and fans to participate in such a prestigious event for the first time in program history. The tournament adds to our challenging non-conference schedule that will prepare us for the Big East season."

MEET THE COACHES

ON THE SIDELINES

SEAN MILLER, ARIZONA

Sean Miller enters his 10th year as head coach of the Arizona Wildcats. Over the course of that time, Miller has established Arizona as a national powerhouse, guiding the team to five regular season conference championships and three conference tournament titles. In 14 years as a head coach, Miller has accrued a 367-121 (.752) record, while attaining a 247-74 (.769) mark with the Wildcats. Before arriving at Arizona, Miller served as head coach at Xavier, where he led the Musketeers to four NCAA tournaments, and also won three A-10 regular season championships and one conference tournament championship. Miller also served as the head coach of the USA men's Under-19 junior national team, coaching them to a perfect 7-0 record and a gold medal.

BRAD UNDERWOOD, ILLINOIS

Entering his second season at Illinois, Brad Underwood has won more than 73 percent of his games through his first five years as a Division I head coach. Year 1 saw an average of 75.8 points on the season, which marked the Illini's highest scoring average in 13 years. The team also recorded its best offensive rebounding rate in the last 10 years, while also posting the team's highest free throw rate since 2008 and most free throws made since 2002. The team also raised the bar in the offseason by signing a national top-20 recruiting class.

BRUCE PEARL, AUBURN

Bruce Pearl has led the Auburn Tigers to 70 wins, a Southeastern Conference Championship, and an appearance in the NCAA Tournament in just four years as head coach. Over the course of 23 seasons as an NCAA head coach, Pearl has earned a winning percentage of .720 and is just one of seven active head coaches who has led his teams to at least 10 NCAA Sweet 16 appearances. The Tigers are coming off a record-breaking season, setting records for 3-pointers made, free throws made, and total blocks.

STEVE PROHM, IOWA STATE

In seven seasons as a head coach, Steve Prohm owns a win percentage of better than .700. Prohm enters his fourth season as head coach of the Cyclones, leading the team to a 60-41 mark and a pair of NCAA Tournament berths. Over the course of his time at Iowa State, the team has spent 27 weeks ranked in the Associated Press Top 25, rising as high as No. 4. A 2017 Skip Prosser Man of the Year finalist, Prohm has won 20 or more games in six of his first seven seasons as a Division I head coach.

MIKE KRZYZEWSKI, DUKE

Duke head coach Mike Krzyzewski enters the 2018-2019 season with a 1,100-338 record in 43 years as a head coach, with a 1,027-279 mark with the Blue Devils. Coach K is the all-time Division I men's career wins leader, and was the first Division I men's basketball coach to achieve a four-figure win total. During his time in Durham, Coach K has averaged 25.5 wins per season and established NCAA records with 33 20-win seasons and 14 30-win campaigns. His five national championship titles are the second most in NCAA history, trailing only the 10 won by John Wooden. In addition to establishing Duke as one of college basketball's most elite programs, Coach K simultaneously worked as one of the architects of the revitalization of USA Basketball, during which time he won three Olympic gold medals and two World Cup golds.

BRIAN DUTCHER, SAN DIEGO STATE

A longtime San Diego State men's basketball assistant coach, Brian Dutcher enters his second season as head coach after a first year in which he led the Aztecs to their 11th conference title and to their first NCAA tournament appearance since 2015. Over the course of his 19 years at San Diego State, Dutcher has helped the team reach the postseason 14 times, including nine trips to the NCAA tournament, and win a conference-best 11 Mountain West titles and record 13 seasons of at least 20 victories.

MARK FEW, GONZAGA

Mark Few has guided Gonzaga for a total of 19 seasons, 10 of which he served as an assistant coach to the program. Over the course of those seasons, the Bulldogs have won or shared 17 regular season league titles and taken home the conference tournament championship 15 times. The team won or shared 14 straight West Coast Conference regular-season titles from 2000-11, which was the longest current active streak in the nation and the second-best streak all-time. Few led Gonzaga to its first-ever national championship appearance in 2017.

TRAVIS STEELE, XAVIER

After spending the past 10 seasons at Xavier, including nine on the staff of his predecessor Chris Mack, Travis Steele was named head coach of the Musketeers on March 31. Steele has been a part of nine NCAA Tournament teams at Xavier, including five teams that reached the Sweet 16. He has also been named as one of the top two recruiters in the Big East, playing a key role in developing nationally-ranked recruiting classes, including three straight classes ranked among the top 20 in the country.

TOURNAMENT HISTORY

SINCE THE BEGINNING, THERE'S ALWAYS BEEN MAUI MAGIC

The genesis of one of college basketball's greatest early season traditions appeared to be nothing more than a tune up for the nation's top-ranked team. In December 1982, Virginia was on the final leg of a five-game road trip which began on the Atlantic Coast. After traveling nearly 7,000 miles to participate in a pair of neutral site contests in Tokyo, the Cavaliers' final stop was at the Blaisdell Center in Honolulu.

During its first four games, Virginia easily handled perennial powers Duke, Georgetown, Houston and Utah. The final game came against NIAA program Chaminade. After dispatching its first eight opponents of the season with ease, Virginia was the heavy favorite against the Silverswords. After all, All-American Ralph Sampson was a future No. 1 pick and Virginia would advance to the Elite Eight later in the year.

Chaminade, however, was just in its basketball infancy, having started its program during the 1976-77 season. Although the Silverswords had won 28 games during the 1981-82 campaign, the team was considered a longshot to even compete with Virginia, let alone win.

After 40 minutes in Honolulu, on Dec. 23, the final score rocked the college basketball landscape: Chaminade 77, Virginia 72. The aftermath of what's called the greatest upset in college basketball history sparked one of the most notable traditions on the college basketball calendar, an annual serving of Sun, Surf and Hoops at the Maui Jim Maui Invitational Thanksgiving week.

Two years after that historic upset, Chaminade hosted the inaugural Silversword Invitational, which was held at Konawaena High School in Kona. Then in 1985, the Tournament transitioned to War Memorial Gymnasium in Wailuku, Maui, before relocating to its current, and iconic, home at the Lahaina Civic Center in 1987.

Throughout its 34-year history, more than 100 teams, representing 26 conferences and 40 states, have added to the history of the nation's premier early-season basketball tournament. The Maui Jim Maui Invitational has been a showcase of countless All-Americans, NBA Draft picks, Hall of Fame players and coaches, and produced some of college basketball's most memorable moments.

While the majesty of Maui is a magnet for fans across the country, it is the high-level competition

In addition to high-quality competition, the participants enjoy a variety of island activities during their time on Maui. From a teams-only dinner under the Hawaiian stars to experiencing unique Hawaiian culture and tradition, student-athletes and coaches revel in all that the Hawaiian lifestyle has to offer. Many teams will take a bit of time after the Tournament to play tourist and explore the island. You'll recognize them as the tallest people on the beach!

TOURNAMENT HISTORY

Over the years, the County of Maui has invested more than $1.6 million in the Lahaina Civic Center to create a quality host venue for the mecca of college basketball including a playing floor, updated rollaway bleachers, new scoreboards, a Hawaiian wall mural, enhanced arena lighting and the addition of permanent air conditioning back in 2003. The LCC is a compactly-sized arena with a seating capacity of 2,400.

DID YOU KNOW?

Besides early-season bragging rights, the winning team is awarded at the post-championship game ceremony with the coveted Wayne Duke Championship Trophy, a two and a half-foot solid sterling silver trophy engraved with the team names of all past champions. In addition, the winning team is given a souvenir take-home championship trophy – a three-foot surfboard made of native koa wood – to be displayed in the team's on-campus trophy case. The head coach is presented a maile and tuberose lei, signifying protection for the wearer that bestows good luck. The tournament's runner-up receives a trophy, fashioned from indigenous wood in the form of a monkey pod bowl.

PERFORMERS

RHYTHM OF THE ISLANDS

Many talented and world-renowned performers have a hand in making the Maui Jim Maui Invitational an entertaining atmosphere throughout the Tournament. Below are some of the voices and performers fans can expect to see and hear over three days at the Lahaina Civic Center.

GENE HONDA (PUBLIC ADDRESS ANNOUNCER)

For 10 years, Gene Honda has served as the voice of the Maui Jim Maui Invitational. Gene is also the official voice of the NCAA® Final Four® and Frozen Four®, Chicago White Sox®, Chicago Blackhawks®, the Big Ten Men's Basketball Tournament and DePaul University men's basketball.

DRUMS OF PACIFIC LUAU

Drums of the Pacific Luau, from Hyatt Regency Maui, will feature skilled performers that will entertain the crowd with authentic dances and music from the islands of the South Pacific.

MAUI NUI

The Sheraton Maui Nui Luau shares the music, dance and history of the islands at the foot of the famous cliff diving point, Black Rock. World renowned Polynesia entertainment producer Tihati Productions presents the best in Hawaiian and Polynesian song and dance, including the spectacular fire knife dance.

OLD LAHAINA LUAU AND FEAST OF LELE

Don't miss the Old Lahaina Luau and Feast of Lele as performers take the stage to share their heritage of traditional island dancing.

SAMUELE E. KALAMA INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL'S UKULELE BAND

Enjoy the beautiful sounds of the Samuele E. Kalama Intermediate School under the director of Mr. Benny Uetake. The band will be performing at its sixth consecutive Tournament.

WAILELE POLYNESIAN LUAU

Waiiele Polynesian Luau from The Westin Maui Resort and Spa, performed by Po'ohala Productions, will feature cultural dance and music as a means of carrying on the virtues, arts and skills of the family.

ZENSHIN DAIKO

Zenshin Daiko has performed in over 700 performances in cultural and community events all over Hawaii, throughout the mainland and Japan. Making their fourth appearance at the Tournament, the band will perform Japanese percussion called taiko.

LAHAINA CIVIC CENTER

WHERE THE MAGIC HAPPENS

Lahaina Civic Center, 2016

A multipurpose sports and recreation facility for 362 days of the year, Maui's Lahaina Civic Center transforms into a mecca of college basketball for three days each November. It takes a dedicated staff to prepare the Lahaina Civic Center for three of the most exciting days on the college basketball calendar. During Thanksgiving week, the 46-year old venue morphs from a community center, where just weeks earlier a town meeting took place, young children challenged each other in a game of HORSE or local basketball teams held practice, into a bucket list destination for sports fans around the world that annually features the best college basketball has to offer.

Its 2,400 seats make it one of the most intimate environments for fans, coaches and players. Only 15 rows separate the 'nosebleeds' from the hardwood — there truly is not a bad seat in the house. The compact environment, combined with the fast pace of the nation's best athletes, makes the Lahaina Civic Center one of the most unique venues in all of sports.

Over the years, the County of Maui has invested more than $1.6 million to make the venue an inviting atmosphere for fans, alumni and locals. Through the years, upgrades to the bleachers, scoreboards, lighting, and the addition of permanent air conditioning in 2003, have enhanced the experience for teams and fans alike. And since hosting its first Maui Jim Maui Invitational in 1987, the Lahaina Civic Center hardwood has showcased many of the game's legendary coaches, such as Mike Krzyzewski, Roy Williams, Lute Olson and Dean Smith, as well as All-American players, like Danny Manning, Glen Rice, Grant Hill, Adam Morrison and Kemba Walker.

The charm of the Lahaina Civic Center has been and will remain an integral part of the mystique that is the Maui Jim Maui Invitational. It is distinctly Maui, and represents the proud tradition and exciting future of this premier early-season college basketball tournament.
