Hawaiian cuisine with its beautiful tapestry of culture and tradition, was spotlighted at Lunalilo Home under the Māhealani moon Saturday. With live music and the scent of roses and gardenias filling the air and glasses filled with wine, the excitement and anticipation grew as each course was served. Dinner included a tour of our new garden beds growing food for our farm-to-kupuna program and each guest got to take home a kalo plant to remember a truly lovely evening spent supporting the kūpuna.

Second, In case I should marry and have issue, then I do hereby give and de-
